

Directions to the Men's Faculty Club on the UC Berkeley Campus

The Men's Faculty Club is about a 300 yard walk from the entrance to the Cal campus at Bancroft and College. During the evening, it's usually pretty easy to park on the street around Durant, Bancroft, and College, but there are also some parking garages/lots in the immediate vicinity. There's a parking lot at the Bancroft Hotel next to Café Strada. There is also a parking garage underneath the Hearst Tennis Courts. Blue circles are on the locations of these parking lots on the map above.

To get to the Faculty Club find your way to the corner of Bancroft and College in Berkeley (plug that into Google Maps and it will show you the location/directions), park, and then walk into campus to the Faculty Club using the map above. It's only about three buildings in, on your right side. Once you reach Faculty Glade (a big open area at the top of a small knoll) it will be a large house-looking building tucked in on your right side. The Faculty Club is pictured below –you will likely be arriving from the other side – but it generally looks like this (on the left is a broad view, on the right the entrance you'll be using):

